San Jose, CA, February 25, 2010 – Audavi Corporation announced that it is now a DOD EMALL Certified Supplier. DOD EMALL is an internet based electronic mall which allows military and other authorized government customers to search for and order items from qualified government and commercial sources. DOD EMALL is operated by the Defense Logistics Information Service (www.dod-email.dla.mil).

“Audavi has been supplying ruggedized MediaPac storage solutions to military and government agencies for eight years. We have "off-the-shelf" and custom solutions deployed in several Navy avionics platforms, US Army ground station applications, and numerous DOD and civilian government agencies. Our new DOD EMALL marketplace catalog provides an additional secure, encrypted method of purchase making it easier for our customers to find our products and get them shipped quickly to where they are needed most,” says Mike Bergkamp, CEO of Audavi.

MediaPac cartridges are designed for users who require ruggedized portable storage for back-up and transport of large audio, video, and data files. MediaPac cartridges are also an excellent solution for military and government applications requiring removable media for data security and system declassification. The patented storage technology allows for the incorporation of state-of-the-art solid state and hard disk drive technology into existing legacy systems providing cost-effective and timely solutions for video surveillance and sensor data recording. Rugged enough to survive a 2-foot drop onto concrete, the MediaPac cartridge is an excellent replacement for tape for client data backup and disaster recovery, medical image storage, and security video recording. MediaPac cartridges can move easily from system to system using any of the standard interfaces (USB, Firewire, SATA, SCSI).
